Dear Dr. Salvatore Settineri,

We submit our manuscript entitled "Mobile Phone Addiction and Mobile Phone Use in Dangerous Circumstances: Prevalence and Correlates in a Sample of Italian University Students", to your consideration for publication as a regular article in the Mediterranean Journal of Clinical Psychology.

The article research assesses addiction to mobile phone and its dangerous use while driving, cycling or walking, as associated with sex and age differences and with psychological factors such as anxiety and obsessive-compulsive disorder, in a large sample of Italian university students. This is important new for health science research since dangerous use of mobile phone, nowadays taking an essential part in daily life, has become a burning problem in Mediterranean countries. Our study increases the knowledge of epidemiological predictors of mobile phone dangerous use as associated to behavioral tendencies and mental illness. For these
